Event Description:

A photographic celebration of black American women

Jerry Taliaferro, curator/guest speaker

This exhibition is a photographic study of the physical and spiritual beauty of the black American woman. The subjects are from all walks of life and include the young and the old, mothers and daughters, artists and professionals. One particularly unique feature of this project is that up to 20 local subjects will be photographed and included in the exhibition. The photographic style is reminiscent of the photography of 1930s and 1940s Hollywood.
